Plenty of time for those wishing to be back in Adelaide for the Bay to Birdwood Rally on Sunday 25th Sept.

The Clare Valley is just an hour and a half north of Adelaide. With a rich cultural tapestry dating back 160 years and more than 35 cellar doors, the region is perfect for immersing yourself in the finer things in life: food and wine, divine places to stay, history, arts and festivals.

It has been likened to Tuscany. Classic stone buildings, pretty churches and rolling hills patterned with vines. Established in 1851 by the Jesuits, now more than 30 wineries produce prestigious wines, especially riesling. Discover antiques and crafts.

It's not only wine that thrives in the Clare Valley. Cereal grains and sheep farming are the other primary industries and in Burra, vintage cider is made from apples grown in the region.

A good selection of accommodation, hotels, cellar doors, wineries and attractions can be found at destinations along the Clare Valley between Auburn and Clare, including Leasingham, Watervale, Penwortham and Sevenhill and the website, planbooktravel.com.au, is a useful resource for articles, reviews, stories, photos and blogs for the Clare Valley region of South Australia.
